COUNTRY BOY EDDY

Country Boy Eddy – known as Gordon Edward Burns to locals - started his road to entertainment at the age of 13 when he would go door to door selling garden seeds to local farmers. The money he made went towards something that would become synonymous with him throughout his career – a fiddle. After months of selling seeds, Eddy bought that fiddle and proceeded to teach himself how to play. From there, Eddy met a lifelong friend in Happy Hal Burns, who invited him to join the Happy Hal Burns' Band. It was Happy Hal who coined the nickname "Country Boy Eddy".

Eddy then served in the US Army during the Korean War where he would often play for the Armed Forces Radio Network overseas. When the war was over, he came back to Birmingham, married his wife, Edwina, and started the first version of "The Country Boy Eddie Show" which aired Saturdays on WAPI following wrestling at midnight. From there Eddy and his band were hired as the stage band for the Tom York Morning Show on WBRC. Wanting something bigger, and seeing an opportunity, Eddy then convinced WBRC to give him a four-week trial run for a show of his own during the unused 5a-7a time period. Eddy never looked back as the Country Boy Eddie Show dominated morning television for 38 years – complete with mule brays, adlibbed commercials, and music from anyone willing to get up that early.

Among his many accomplishments, Eddy is most known for launching the careers of several Alabama musicians – most notably Tammie Wynette and Wendy Holcombe. Eddy's reach expanded beyond Alabama too. He also hosted a morning show in Nashville where his guests included a young Dolly Parton, Pat Boone and Eddy Arnold.

Over the course of his career, Eddy was one of Alabama's most influential people in both the music and television industries. His charisma, style and work ethic created decades of entertainment that will never be duplicated.

ROScoe ROBINSON

The 8th Annual Alabama Music Awards Lifetime Achievement winner, Roscoe Robinson was born May 22, 1928 and currently resides in Birmingham, AL. His career spans several decades and has brought him acclaim in both gospel and R&B genres. Roscoe Robinson is one of the last of the great long serving 'shout singers'. Robinson combines a high energy soul and a voice that peels from generations and decades of emotions. A mix of gospel, funk, soul, and old school rock adds to Mr. Robinson's main ingredients.

His musical career began with gospel in 1946 as member of the Royal Quartet, but just two years later he found himself a part of three musical groups simultaneously (Highway QC's, the Kelly Brothers, and the Norfolk Singers). During this same time, Mr. Robinson was asked to be Sam Cooke's replacement for the Southern Sons, while Mr. Cooke remained with their original group, the Highway QC's. Mr. Robinson continued on solely with the Southern Sons as the group began to record gospel songs.

Towards the end of 1950, while the US participated in the Korean War, Robinson was called to serve in the United States Army. While a part of the 505 Airborne Group based in Columbus, GA, Robinson continued to sing, even starting a group on base that won first place in a singing competition. After completing his time in the army, Mr. Robinson married and became a father. In 1956 Mr. Robinson joined the Silver Quintet where he began recording again. While with the group, he was asked to be a part of the Five Blind Boys although he himself was not blind. While he was singing with the Blind Boys, Roscoe wrote "Somewhere There's A God " which was recorded by the Womack Bros. The secularized version, "Somewhere There's A Girl" was recorded by The Valentinos and also by Sam Cooke.

The group needing another lead vocal to share the songs with, Mr. Robinson agreed and went on tour with the group. During his time with the group Mr. Robinson recorded six singles over the next three years, and was even once billed as Roscoe Robinson and the Blind Boys before moving into the rhythm and blues (R&B) era as a solo artist. Mr. Robinson made over 25+ singles of R&B music, frequently crossing back over to gospel during 1980's while still performing with Five Blind Boys of Mississippi.

After many years with the Five Blind Boys of Mississippi, Mr. Robinson joined the Blind Boys of Alabama, which earned him another induction into the American Quartet Hall of Fame. Mr. Robinson was also honored by the Birmingham Record Collectors on August 21, 2005 by being inducted into the Birmingham Record Collectors Music Hall of Fame. The first R&B song Mr. Robinson recorded was titled, "What Makes A Man Do Wrong," in 1964. Two years later, he recorded "That's Enough" which landed at the number seven spot on the Billboard R&B charts after 13 weeks. Mr. Robinson also had two other hits on the Billboard Charts "How Much Pressure (Do You Think I Can Stand)" and "Do it Now." With the success of the singles, Mr. Robinson could not ignore his love for gospel music, therefore returning to gospel in 1967 as a member of the Soul Stirrers. He recorded well into the 2000's where for his many musical accomplishments he earned the City of Gary Indiana Proclamation on August 21, 2015. Mr. Roscoe Robinson is a musical pioneer and has earned his place in musical history as a legend.

8TH ANNUAL ALABAMA MUSIC AWARDS <sup>TM</sup>

LENORA MAY

BIO:

Modeling is a lifestyle for me. I started officially back in 2016 with runway and print experience, but have been getting paid jobs since 2018 . I always knew that I was a natural born performer and should continue to put my talents to use after grade school. My mom put me in cheerleading and dance classes growing up. Once I got to middle school age, I made the cheerleading team. So I've always had the proper stage training for this industry as well. It's more than just looks! It's attitude, confidence, and faith in yourself to succeed. It took a lot for me to build my confidence but my belief in my spirit is what kept me and still keeps me going. It truly made me confident to do what I do. Like we all say, without God we are nothing! And I believe in that, faithfully.

MODEL

MARA NAOMI EARLY

I started modeling 8 years ago. And throughout this journey I have had the honor of walking in over 250 Runways. I have participated in Atlanta and Orlando Fashion Weeks. I have had the pleasure of working with models, designers, photographers and event organizers in Alabama, Georgia, Florida, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, North and South Carolina. Four time nominated for Alabama Model of the Year as well as 2019 Hottest Promo Company and 2020 Hottest Movement nominations.

I have featured in several magazines including the cover of Shazzles magazine. I have appeared in several music videos and movies including "Play For Keeps" by Frankie Small, Big tone & Chris GBFK and "J Missy I'm Crazy" by Roc Reels.

I am the founder of "Models Gotta Eat 2". I have used my experience on the runway to coach other models on how to walk and present themselves. I was the scene coordinator for the black history month celebration fashion show and stage play "Through their eyes" by author Raymonde Goode in San Antonio, TX.

I also have experience with music video production, brand promotion, being a brand ambassador, creative director, makeup artist and hairstylist. I have utilized my creativity to plan and organize several themed photoshoots.
